

Atwood's Arrows

With every issue we hope to bring you the latest news floating around Archer Atwood Books, ideas that inspires us all, and some treats only those in Atwood's quiver will learn about. Enjoy!

February 2018

Feb 15 Partial Solar Eclipse. New Moon. There is no full moon this month!

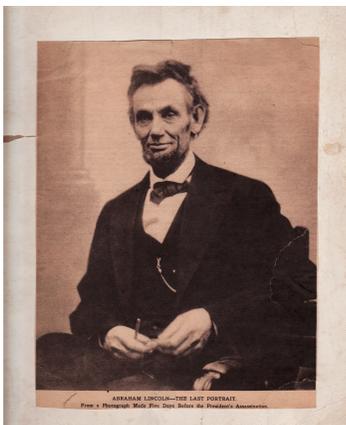

The Theme for 2018 is "Positivity"

Positivity is the word that is going to drive everything we do this year and I hope you will join in.

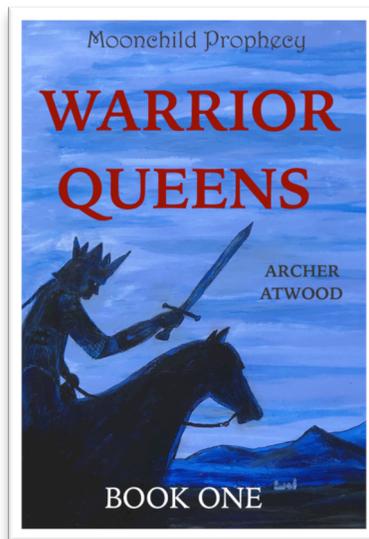

I am not talking about being a head in the clouds person. I am talking about not letting the bad get us down. It's about surrounding ourselves with positive vibes. About looking at what we have accomplished, no matter how small, rather than getting depressed over what we haven't accomplished!

Its time to make yourself a Positivity Game Plan.

Begin Your Adventure Here!

Something for the adults and the kiddies.

The Moonchild's Prophecy

Series: Progress has been a little slower than we had hoped in the re-launch. The hold up is in the last edit and the creation of the covers. True to the spirit of Archer Atwood Books, we want to have unique book covers to go with the unique stories within. Inspiration and the creative process can not always be rushed. Please have patience. We know you are going to really like the new look and format. (Check out the sneak peak of Book One's cover above!)

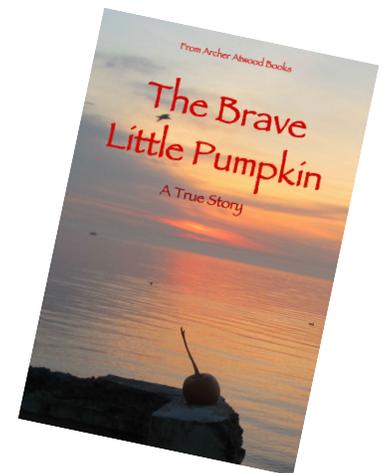

The Willow's Moon Song Series

We are letting you know that the latest "Books by Chapter" story in the Archer Atwood blog - "Sleep Medicine" will be removed soon to be combined into a pdf. Not to worry if you want to re-read it. We will make it available for free in the blog section for at least a few more months. The plan is to eventually expand the story into a full book. Be on the look out for a new "Books by Chapter".

Atwood's Bedtime Stories

We plan to post version one of "The Brave Pumpkin" in pdf form. The final version will have original artwork to complement it. That we hope to offer for sale. .
